STRANGE WAYS OF THE OSTRICH.

The Hens of the Flock Lay in the Same Nest and the Male Hatches the Eggs.

The estrich has many strange ways, and I was particularly interested in studying them. They go in flocks of three or four females and one male about their nesting time, and for sev-eral weeks before locating their nests The Kent County Bar association will the hens drop their eggs all about the pampas. These are called haucho (pronounced "watcho") eggs, and are much more delicate in flavor than the eggs taken from the nests. They have a thinner shell and when fresh laid are of a beautiful golden color. We cooked them by reasting them before the fire. We would first break a hole in the small end of the egg large enough to insert a teaspoon. The egg would be set up among some hot ashes, a pinch of salt and pepper put into it, and the contents kept stirred with a stick, so that all would be done alike. The flavor is excellent, and one egg would satisfy a very hungry man, As soon as the estriches decide upon a suitable place for a nest the male bird scratches away the grass and slightly hollows the ground for a space of about two feet in diameter. All the hens of the flock lay in the same nest until them are from twenty-five to thirty-five eggs laid. The male bird then takes posses sion and sits on the eggs until they are hatched. As soon as the broad can leave the next the old fellow leads them away to feed on flies and small insects. and everything is lovely until he espice another male bird with a brood.

As soon as the old birds see each other they make a peculiar booming sound and every little estrich disappears in the grass. The old ones then approach each other and engage in a most deadly conflict. They fight until one or the other one will then after another peculiar sound and both broods will spring up from their hiding places and follow the victor, who strats off as proud as a peacock. I have seen old male estriches with three broods, each of a different size, two of which they had captured.

They become very tame in captivity, but are a perfect nuisance about a place, as you cannot keep them out of the ber 5 to 7, good for return until Sep-buildings and they will gobble up any. tember 15. Fare only $9,35, buildings and they will gobble up anything they can swallow. One of them cleaned out a workbasket oneday, swal lowing spools of cotton, emery bag and thimble, ending his report by eating up bowl of marrow we had on the table to use in lion of butter. They will stalk around the grounds in the most sedate manner, then suddenly commence dancing in the most condeal way, tumbling like mad. They will stop this foolishaces as suddenly as they commenced it and walk off as demandir as if they were going to a foreral.-Forest and Strento,

I remember one old lady who realize a tidy little sum by hiring out her rent book. As she paid her landlord puno thally every week, her book was of course invaluable to the defaulting tenand in search of a house. I should think that this book was presented at our office some scores of times before the fraud was detected. What led to the discovery was the frequent recurrence in our defaulters list of the same name. -London Tit-Bits.

A few years ago a young man living not over a thousand miles from Hartford fell head over heels in love with a young lady whom he had been introduced to at the home of a friend. He wrote her several notes and received no answer, and finally becoming desperate wrote that she would find his cold corpse on her front porch if she did not send him "one little line." About Printers' Marks. The interrogation mark or "point" (?) was originally a "q" and an "o," the latter placed under the former. They were simply the first and last letters of the Latin word "questio." So, too, with the sign of exclamation or interjection (5). In its original purity it was a com-bination of "i" and "o," the latter underneath, as in the question mark. The two stood for "lo," the Latin exclamation of joy. The paragraph mark (*) is a Greek "p," the initial of the word paragraph. The early printers employed a dagger (†) to show that a word or sentence was objectionable and should be cut out.—St. Louis Republic,

It Ought to Be Popular.

Bakers as a class are not particularly progressive in a business way. There are exceptions, however, and one of the most notable of these is the United States Faking company. They never jet slip an opportunity to please the public. Even the issues of the presidential campaign have received their all over themselves and running around attention, and the result is a "Grandfather's Hat" cake that has made its appearance within the last few days, and which no doubt will be found at all the leading grocery stores. It is said to be a delightful cake, and if the name goes for anything it ought to be ministractly popular.

Infant Mortality Credited to Improper Food

Lactated Food the Purest and Best Diet.

Happy Grand Rapids Mothers Whose Children Live on It.

The extraordinary mortality from various forms of infantile indigestion this summer has led to careful inquiry, and the best authorities on the subject in this city have freely expressed their opinions.

Several of the best known physicians in Grand Rapids were interviewed yesterday and the following question "In view of the large death rate this summer of infants in Grand Rapids, what do you recommend?" The general sentiment of the profession was voiced in the following statement from one of the most successful practitioners among children. He

"There is nothing equal to lectated food and its use is last becoming general among the profession. We find that it is retained on the stomach where other things are not retained.

"For cholera intantum I find it most valuable, and I generally give small portions often repeated when called to attend such cases. In almost every case where mothers are unable to nurse their infants, I find that lactated food answers well."

Many happy mothers in Grand Rapids have used lactated food success fully where everything else failed. They say that this food has kept their children strong and well during the dangerous summer season and many of them have recommended it to friends, who have had the same happy

The principal element of mother's milk is sugar of milk. This is the basis of lactated food. With it is combined the nutritious elements of the great cereals, wheat and barley, and the necessary bone-forming salts. This makes lactated food a perfect and natural substitute for mother's milk. It must be borne in mind that lactated food is so mexpensive that it within the reach of every family. On hundred and fifty meals can be made from a dollar package of the tood, and when prepared for the use of in-fants, it costs less than five cents a Mothers should remember that choicra infantum can be more easily prevented than cured. Simply feed the baby with pure factated food, and the child will keep well and strong. Strength and Health.

EAD AND DO SOME THINKING

The voter cannot cast an intelligent Bailot unless he can appreciate the intricate manipulations of the wheels of government and become conversant to some extent at least with the funda-mental facts and theories controlling the various great governmental departments, and he cannot hope to know the character of the chief executive unless he reads an Accurate and Impartial Biography, written and compiled by a Master Litterateur, equal to the difficult task.

Gen. Benjamin Harrison is a candidate for re-election. The Nation demands that the hero who led its armies in the Field, and who for four years has wisely and nobly steered the ship of state shall continue to hold the helm and guide our Nation through the perils of the future as ably as he has through those of the past. He who during the administration has saved the country The system does not become habituated to from a series of threatening dangers, has brought Italy ble use of them. DIRECTIONS-Throw the Powder on the and Chile to the feet of our Republican throne, and tongue and swallow with a little water. Be- made even England yield to American demands in the They are an excellent romedy for Neuralgia, Behring Sea difficulty, is the man for the people of these United States.

Gen. Lew Wallace, who is known throughout the United States as one of the most intimate personal friends of President Harrison, and as having had a great deal to do with his re-nomination, has written a biography of the President, which reads like a veritable Romace, yet is Accurate History.

The book has been officially authorized and contributed to by the heads of the government in Articles regarding the workings of the Republican policy and the Present administration. These distinguished contributors include Hon. William E. Curtis, Hon. John Wanamaker, Hon. Jeremiah Rusk, Secretary Foster and Hon. Eugene Hale. Their topics 'nclude commercial Reciprocity, Postal Service, Progress of the Public Domain, Etc. When General Harrison was asked his choice of a biographer he promptly replied, "My life-long friend, General Wallace." His chief advisors, interpreting the President's desire, have officially supplied the volume with most valuable contributions.

The Book is a Monument to Skill and Fidelity.

We offer it Free with three months' subcription to THE HERALD. The book sells for $1.50, and thousands of copies have been and are being sold. We are desirous of having such a book, bram full as it is of information of vital importance to the voter, in every home in Western Michigan. It will be referred to oftener than a dictionary, and will be read with more pleasure than a novel.
